

Our team consists, on the one hand, of highly qualified, experienced, professionally trained translators holding university degrees and looking back on several years of practical experience, and, on the other hand, of project managers who hold the same translator qualifications and have many years of experience in the project management of complex translation projects. Translators and project managers work with TEXTimFLUSS GmbH in a cooperative partnership on the basis of freelance contracts.

We have successfully handled complex translation projects over the past years. Here, we, the project managers, developed a keen sense of which of our colleagues is best suited to complete projects like this successfully together, based on their experience, field of expertise and personality.
